

Guido Tabellini
Director

Currently full professor (professore ordinario) of political economics at the Bocconi University, where he is the Chairman of the Innocenzo Gasparini Institute for Economic Research (IGIER) and Member of the Privatization Committee.

Previously full professor at Stanford University, U.C.L.A. (University of California at Los Angeles) and at the Universities of Cagliari and Brescia. Researcher for various international institutions and universities, such as the Federal Bank of the United States, the Institute of International Economic Studies of Stockholm, the Carnegie-Mellon University, Member of the Board of Economic Experts for the Prime Minister's Office, Consultant for the International Monetary Fund.

Other information – Born in January 1956, Ph.D. in economics at U.C.L.A. in 1984 Member of various domestic and international research centres, including CES-Ifo (Munich) and CEPR (London), and of numerous scientific and editorial committees, Fellow of the Econometric Society, Winner of the Y. Jahnsson Award, conferred by the European Society of Economists, Honorary Foreign Member of the American Academy of Arts and Sciences, Chairman of the European Society of Economists (2005), Author of numerous scientific publications on macroeconomics and macroeconomic policy, international and public economics. Editorial writer for il Sole 24 Ore.